Russian Heritage Activities in October and After

There are a number of events coming up for Russian Heritage in October, and others on the horizon. Two major events now scheduled are the Translation Program for October 18 and the SPIFFS Folk Fair at the end of October. See also a special series of seminars on Poland (page 2) by Bill Parsons, and do not forget about our very special Old Russian New Year's Gala on January 10, 2015. A special supplement to this October Newsletter will come out soon with more information about other upcoming events, and information about getting registered for Old Russian New Year's Celebration. ## Parsons Presents: "Poetry Translation: Pushkin and Krylov" Saturday, October 18 at the Russian American Club in Gulfport

Bill Parsons, Professor Emeritus from Eckerd College, will present a program featuring the translation of Russian poetry into English, with examples from the works of Russian poets Alexander Pushkin and Ivan Krylov. Professor Parsons attended a Translation Workshop at the University of Illinois in July 2014 and he will talk about his experiences there and share examples of his translation efforts.

Topics covered will be the difficulty of all translation projects, with special attention given to the problems of translating poetry, and especially Russian poetry into English. Examples will be given of previous attempts to translate Pushkin and Krylov and current efforts underway. Texts to be considered are several of Pushkin's short lyrics, Yevgeny Onegin, and three fables by Krylov (see page 4-5).

The program will begin with a light pizza supper at 6:00 p.m. and the translation presentation at 6:30 p.m. This event will take place at the Russian American Club (2920 Beach Blvd. in Gulfport). Donations: $5.00 for adults, and $3.00 for students.

SPIFFS 40th Folk Fair: October 30 – November 2, 2014

Russian Heritage will participate in the annual SPIFFS Folk Fair at Vinoy Park in downtown St. Petersburg with a "Russian village" presenting Russian culture, foods, and entertainment. On the last two days of October, students from local schools will attend the event, and on Saturday and Sunday the park will be open to the general public.

The cultural displays will include information about famous Russians and Russian cultural traditions, including art work and souvenirs for sale by Vladimir's Collection. Russian foods will be available, prepared by a new Russian restaurant from Clearwater named Old Moscow. Russian Entertainment will be provided by Suzanne Pomerantzev's St. Petersburg Folk Ensemble on Friday, at 2:20 p.m., and Sunday, at 3:20 p.m., and by Galina Popova's Russian Choir on Saturday, at noon. This choir has been rehearsing on Saturdays from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m. in September and October at the Russian American Club and new singers are welcome.

We hope that many will come (in Russian costume, if possible) for the Opening Ceremonies and the Parade of Nations on Saturday, November 1 at 2:00 p.m., and possibly to support our Russian entertainers. We also need volunteers to staff our Russian village and to stamp passports for the students and explain Russian traditions. If you can volunteer to help on Thursday or Friday (8:30 a.m. to noon, or 11:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.) or for a 3-hour shift on Saturday or Sunday, please call 727-873-8530, 727-367-2092, or 727-867-6013 for more information. We will have free admission passes for the volunteers, and reduced admission for participants in the parade of nations.

Polish Seminars. Bill Parsons. Professor Emeritus of Eckerd College, will conduct a series of seminars based on his recent book, POLAND: AN INTRODUCTION TO POLISH LIFE AND CULTURE, which includes information on Polish history, language and literature, music, foods, and humor. This program is intended for Polish Americans who might want to explore in more depth their heritage and for Americans who might simply want to learn more about Polish life and culture. Seminars are held from 2:00 p.m. until 3:30 p.m. on the Sunday afternoons in October, beginning October 5, in the Fellowship Hall of Lakewood United Church of Christ (near the Eckerd College Campus) at 2601 - 54th Avenue South, St. Petersburg. Each session is $5.00, and you may attend one or all of the sessions. For more information call 727-867-9148.

How Many Time Zones Are There in Russia?

This might seem like an easy and straightforward question to answer. But there are complications involved. If you look up information in reference books you might find different answers. Most people in the know are aware that for many years there were 11 time zones in the Soviet Union and then in Russia. However, in the twenty-first century there was talk about the advantages of reducing the number of time zones (for reasons of efficiency) and in March of 2010 the number was set at 9. At this same time it was decided to eliminate the change to daylight savings time, with one of the reasons given "that the farm animals don't like the change". In fact, in 2010 Russia remained on daylight savings time year around. As of October 26 of this year, Putin has abolished daylight savings time and returned the number of time zones to 11. Unless another reversal is made (and it seems rather easier to make these changes in Russia), the country will remain on standard time year around with 11 time zones.

The second secon

Alexander Pushkin (to Anna Olenina) 1829

Я вас любил: любовь еще, быть может В душе моей угасла не совсем; Но пусть она вас больше не тревожит; Я не хочу печалить вас ничем.

Я вас любил безмолвно, безнадежно, То робостью, то ревностью томим; Я вас любил так искренно, так нежно, Как дай вам бог любимой быть другим. I loved you and my love may not have ended, My memories of bliss are still quite strong; But do not fret, I never have intended To cause you grief or pain, for that'd be wrong.

I loved you silently and hopelessly, I wanted more, but shyly did resign; I loved you tenderly, but now I hope You find another love as pure as mine.

Alexander Pushkin (to Anna Olenina, perhaps what he really wanted to say)

Я вас любил: любовь еще, быть может В душе моей угасла не совсем; Но пусть она вас больше не тревожит; Я не хочу печалить вас ничем.

Я вас любил безмолвно, безнадежно, То робостью, то ревностью томим; Я вас любил так искренно, так нежно, Как дай вам бог любимой быть другим. I loved you and my love may not have ended, My memories of bliss are still quite strong; But do not fret, I'll never have intended. To cause you grief or pain, for that'd be wrong.

I loved you and I hope you find another, Another who will love you like a brother. I loved you with a passion and such pleasure May God not give me cause to share this treasure.

THE TROIKA: THE SWAN, THE PIKE, AND THE CRAB Ivan Krylov

When partners find they can't agree, Their work won't lead to harmony, And then what comes is tragedy.

A swan, a crab, and one fine fish Once tried to move a loaded cart. The three were harnessed for the start, Each one prepared to do his part.

Although they pulled and pulled and strained - -The cart in place remained. The load it seemed was not too much for them to bear; The Swan, however, surged into the air;

The fish pulled strongly in the water;

The Crab moved backwards unaware. Now who was right or wrong I do not know or care. I only know for sure the cart's still there.

Лебедь, Щука и Рак Иван Крулов

Когда в товарищах согласья нет, На лад их дело не пойдёт, И выйдет из него не дело, только мука. Однажды Лебедь, Рак да Щука Везти с поклажей воз взялись И вместе трое все в него впряглись; Из кожи лезут вон, а возу всё нет ходу! Поклажа бы для них казалась и легка: Да Лебедь рвётся в облака, Рак пятится назад, а Щука тянет в воду. Кто виноват из них, кто прав — судить не нам; Да только воз и ныне там.
